Guidance Notes for the Completion of this Application

1. Blank rows are provided for the listing of transmitting equipment categories fitted in addition to those listed above.
2. Applicants should be aware of CAR 21.71, Design Change Requirements. Any modification of radio apparatus must be approved by CAA-B or accepted as given in CAR 21.79. All alteration subsequent to issuance of a Certificate of Airworthiness must be approved by CAA-B. Changes in transmitting equipment configuration require a renewed Aircraft Radio Station License to reflect the changes.
3. The application must be signed by the aircraft owner, the owner's authorised representative or the operator's representative.
4. If the form field is not applicable, enter N/A.
5. Fees Payable are stated in the CAA-B Schedule of Fees.
6. The current period of validity for an issued Aircraft Radio Station License is 36 months.
